MANY TALKS ARE PLANNED

President's Train to Stop at W. Main-st Crossing of Norfolk & Western Between 1:30 and 2 p. m. Saturday, G. O. P. Leaders Declare; Is On Way to Detroit.

President Herbert Hoover, campaigning through the mid-west, will visit Circleville between 1:30 and 2 p. m. Saturday, according to an announcement this afternoon by Barton Walters, Pickaway-co Republican leader.

LaFollette Bolt, Others, Cause G. O. P. Worry

Bitter Mixed With Sweet As Campaign Reaches Important Stages.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The bitter was mixed with the sweet today in the political developments served up to President Hoover.

The laudations of his record in dealing with the depression by such outstanding industrialists as Henry Ford, Charles M. Schwab, Harvey Firestone, W. W. Atterbury and the Duponts, were offset by the continued bolting of the Republican progressives.

The trail to Roosevelt blazed by the veteran insurgent from Nebraska, Senator George W. Norris, has been followed by Senator Hiram Johnson in California, Senator Bronson S. Cutting in New Mexico and the La Follette's in Wisconsin. Other Republican progressives in the west, if not actually opposing the Hoover-Curtis ticket, are ignoring it and fighting their own battles.

BOLT SIGNIFICANT
The bolt of the LaFollettes is significant and important, for no politician, Republican or Democratic, underestimates their potency in Wisconsin.

With the enormous increase in Democratic registration in that state, the swing of the LaFollette to the Democratic national and state tickets may well be calculated to put Wisconsin's twelve electoral votes in the Democratic column for the first and only time since 1912. Even without the LaFollette support, the straw votes and newspaper polls have shown Roosevelt far ahead of Hoover in Wisconsin.

And not only is Wisconsin likely to be affected. The LaFollette influence overflows the borders of Wisconsin into Minnesota, the Dakotas and contiguous states hard hit by minimum prices for grain, livestock, dairy product and other commodities.

CHAMPION OF B. E. F. QUILTS

Maj. Gen. Glassford Leaves Washington; Clashed With White House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of the metropolitan police, who, clashed spectacularly with the district authorities and the White House in the handling of the B. E. F. here last summer, resigned his post today.

Glassford became a national figure during the past summer through his supervision and discipline of the many camps established in the capital by the Bonus Expeditionary Forces. Following the eviction of the World War veterans by U. S. army troops, Glassford was the one official in Washington who escaped condemnation and criticism from the veterans and from the populace in general.

His resignation is said to be his recent attempt to reorganize the police department, but his close friends declare his departure is in reality attributable to his supervision of the bonus marchers.

While the veterans were encamped here, Glassford time after time refused to attempt eviction without written authority from his immediate superiors.

STATE LOSES MASCHKE CASE

Judges Claim Evidence Produced Was Insufficient To Convict Four.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20.—Losing its first fight in the trial that resulted in the acquittal of Maurice Maschke, county Republican position, and four co-defendants, the state today pressed, onward to trace the responsibility for an alleged shortage of a half-million dollars in the county treasury.

Undaunted by the verdict of the three judges who found the veteran political leader and former national committeeman and his aides not guilty of embezzling $177,273 from the treasury funds, examiners from the state department continued a probe of the treasury records that began last April.

Three other indictments in connection with the treasury probe, involving former Treasurer Alex Bernstein, one of the acquitted defendants in the first trial, former Treasurer Walter E. Cook, now a county commissioner, and Joseph Lange, also a former deputy treasurer, still are pending.

Prosecutor P. L. A. Lieghley, who yesterday was informed in the judges' opinion that he had failed to produce sufficient evidence to convict the five defendants in the trial, declined to state when and if the three other cases would be tried.

This move is the outcome of efforts of Dr. Beale, county health commissioner, to have needy persons cared for when care is needed. His office will have to warrant them to the hospital so that too many cases will not be sent to the institution at one time and to be certain that the patients sent there really need aid.

COAL MEN OPPOSE SALES SANS PERMIT

S. C. Grant and N. T. Weldon local coal dealers protested to city council, Wednesday evening that a number of persons are hauling coal by trucks from mines and selling the coal to users here without paying a license for permission to sell.

The former told council that Chillicothe and Portsmouth have both enacted ordinances against the practice and urged that one be adopted here.

This complaints were referred to the ordinance committee and Paul E. Adkins, city solicitor.

Democrat Against Payment Until Budget is Balanced

50,000 AT MEETING

Tax on Beer Advocated by Speaker

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL ENROUTE TO INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 20.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today stood four square against immediate payment of the bonus and in favor of a tax on beer to balance the federal budget, as he carried his campaign for the presidency into Indiana.

Before 50,000 wildly cheering men and women in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, the Democratic presidential nominee declared there is no hope of paying a bonus until the budget has been balanced.

He indicted President Hoover's administration as "reckless and extravagant" and he laid the blame for the necessity of delaying payment of the bonus squarely on the White House doorstep.

RECITES STATEMENT
He denounced as "baseless and absurd" charges made recently by former President Calvin Coolidge that he had remained silent on the bonus, thereby impeding economic recovery. After quoting a statement he had made in which he said he did not see how a government running at a loss of two billion dollars annually could consider anticipation of bonus payment until it had balanced its budget, and had a cash surplus, Roosevelt said:

"No one, for political purposes or otherwise, has the right in the absence of explicit statement from me to assume that my views have changed. They have not. So much for another effort by Republican leaders to preach an unwarranted gospel of fear and panic to the American electorate."

"NO ONE TO STARVE"
He asserted that all news items except those relating directly to the relief of unemployment must be eliminated from the federal budget during the present emergency, and he pledged himself, if elected president, to see to it that no one starves even if he has to recommend new taxes.

HIT-SKIP CAR SOUGHT; MAN NEARS DEATH

Joe Strouse, 72, of Millport, Suffers Head Injury Early Thursday

THROWN OFF ROAD

No Clue to Automobile Held by Police

All the facilities of the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff were thrown into the search, Thursday, for the driver of an automobile or truck which struck Joe Strouse, aged 72, of Millport, shortly after daybreak today.

While the search was going on Strouse was reported dying at the home of his brother, Charles, in Ashville. He is suffering from a fractured skull, fractures of both bones of his right arm and serious internal injuries.

AT SIDE OF ROAD

The man was found lying at the side of the road, opposite the Bunker Hill farm of Richard Hedges, south of South Bloomfield, by the driver of a Columbus Kroger truck at 6:30 a. m. Thursday. A heavy fog was hanging over the vicinity and the driver, whose name was not learned, barely saw the body of the man on the east side of the highway.

He, by using his lantern, stopped a South Bloomfield-bound Circle City dairy truck, driven by Morris Solt, this city. Solt took the unconscious man to the office of Dr. R. S. Hosier at Ashville.

Strouse, well known in the Ashville and South Bloomfield vicinity, has no chance to survive his injuries, Dr. Hosier reports. He has not regained consciousness and is sinking according to the physician.

PAINTING HOUSE

Strouse had been painting a house on the George F. Foreman farm near Bunker Hill and was thought to have been going to the farm to continue his work when the accident happened.

It is possible the driver of the automobile or truck which struck the pedestrian did not see the man because of the fog. He apparently did not stop after the crash.

Deputies in Sheriff Radcliff's office are using every means they have of trying to learn who struck the aged man.

Mr. Strouse is a bachelor.

The father received a fractured skull. William Stubblefield, of Findlay, driver of the automobile which struck the wagon, said Tidd's wagon was not equipped with lights, according to Deputy Lyle Harvitt, who made an investigation.

MT. VERNON. Oct. 20.—Three Fremont women were suffering injuries today in Mercy hospital after their automobile crashed into a pole near here where they were enroute to a 17th district Republican rally at Mt. Vernon.

HIT-SKIP CAR SOUGHT; MAN NEARS DEATH

Joe Strouse, 72, of Millport, Suffers Head Injury Early Thursday

THROWN OFF ROAD

No Clue to Automobile Held by Police

All the facilities of the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff were thrown into the search, Thursday, for the driver of an automobile or truck which struck Joe Strouse, aged 72, of Millport, shortly after daybreak today.

While the search was going on Strouse was reported dying at the home of his brother, Charles, in Ashville. He is suffering from a fractured skull, fractures of both bones of his right arm and serious internal injuries.

AT SIDE OF ROAD

The man was found lying at the side of the road, opposite the Bunker Hill farm of Richard Fedges, south of South Bloomfield, by the driver of a Columbus Kroger truck at 6:30 a. m. Thursday. A heavy fog was hanging over the vicinity and the driver, whose name was not learned, barely saw the body of the man on the east side of the highway. He, by using his lantern, stopped a South Bloomfield-bound Circle City dairy truck, driven by Morris Solt, this city. Solt took the unconscious man to the office of Dr. R. S. Hosler at Ashville.

Strouse, well known in the Ashville and South Bloomfield vicinity, has no chance to survive his injuries, Dr. Hosler reports. He has not regained consciousness and is sinking according to the physician.

PAINTING HOUSE

Strouse had been painting a house on the George P. Foreman farm near Bunker Hill, and was thought to have been going to the farm to continue his work when the accident happened.

It is possible the driver of the automobile or truck which struck the pedestrian did not see the man because of the fog. He apparently did not stop after the crash.

Deputies in Sheriff Radcliff's office are using every means they have of trying to learn who struck the aged man.

Mr. Strouse is a bachelor.

FINDLAY, Oct. 20.—

Harry Tidd, 56, of Arcadia, died early today in a Fostoria hospital from injuries suffered yesterday when an automobile collided with a horse-drawn wagon in which he was riding with his three sons.

Fred Tidd, 16, the oldest son, was suffering head injuries in the same hospital, and his brothers, Joseph, 13, and Robert, 10, were recovering from bruises. The father received a fractured skull.

William Stubbfield, of Findlay, driver of the automobile which struck the wagon, said Tidd's wagon was not equipped with lights, according to Deputy Lyle Harvitt, who made an investigation.

MT. VERNON, Oct. 20.—

Three Fremont women were suffering injuries today in Mercy hospital after their automobile crashed into a pole near here while they were enroute to a 17th district Republican rally at Mt. Vernon.

Those injured were: Mrs. Jane Dick, who suffered a fractured jaw and cuts on the head.

Mrs. B. W. Reading, who received a fractured right arm.

Miss Helen Jackson, who suffered cuts about the face.

RECORD VOTE SEEN IN OHIO THIS YEAR

COLUMBUS, Oct. 20.—Based on the heavy registration through out Ohio, predictions of a presidential vote in the state of more than 2,750,000, setting a new record, were made unofficially today by experts at the secretary of state's office.

The 1928 Ohio cast 2,508,346 votes for president.

Cleveland had a tremendous gain over 1928 in registration, according to tentative estimates. The total eligible to vote is estimated to have soared from 364,108 to about 435,000. Cincinnati has 370,000 eligible to vote although only 258,692 voted four years ago.

"Redoubled," said Gross, San Francisco stock broker, as he triumphantly laid down 13 spades last night in a game of contract bridge.

Gross and his partner, Arnold North, were playing against Mrs. Arnaldo Marson and Mrs. Gross. Gross explained today the hand made 2,090 points.

M'NEAL IN NEW MOVE

Seeks Rehearing On New Trial Motion Claiming Juror's Misconduct.

Charging that Mrs. Lillian Hott of Muhlenberg-twp. was guilty of misconduct as a juror during the trial of Nevel McNeal, 50, of Williamsport, who was convicted of assault with intent to rape a Deercreek-twp. girl, Tom A. Renick and C. A. Weldon, attorneys for the man, filed an application in common pleas court Wednesday afternoon for a rehearing on a motion for a new trial.

The application declares that while a member of the jury trying the McNeal case Mrs. Hott conversed with Miss Jennie Hott concerning the case. At that time defense attorneys claim Mrs. Hott was told that McNeal had approached Miss Jennie Hott with an offer of money if she would inform Mrs. Lillian Hott to favor him while she was a member of the jury. The defense claims Mrs. McNeal was unable to receive a fair trial through this alleged misconduct.

McNeal has been sentenced to one to 15 years in the Ohio penitentiary but Judge J. W. Adkins is free on bond awaiting the arrival of the court of appeals judges the forepart of November.

He is also free on bond after being secretly indicted for an attempt to bribe a juror, namely Mrs. Hott.

BELIEVE STAGG MAY BE CALLED TO YALE

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, Chicago's "grand old man," may finish his athletic career where it began almost a half century ago—amid the historic surroundings of Yale university.

From reliable sources, it was today learned that there is a strong movement gaining headway among Yale alumni to bring Coach Stagg back to New Haven when his retirement becomes effective at Chicago next June.

Yale graduates in the middle west are the leaders in the movement, which will be brought officially to the attention of President James R. Angell when he comes to Chicago November 1 for the annual Yale alumni dinner.

SOURCE OF PRIDE

Coach Stagg's contributions to intercollegiate athletics have always been a source of pride to Yale men, by whom he is considered one of the university's most distinguished graduates. They feel it would be a fine gesture and a great boost for Yale athletics to have the old man back at the school in an official capacity.

Yale's athletic structure has recently undergone a tremendous upheaval and the end apparently is not yet in sight. Malcolm Farmer, at the start of the year assuming the position of chairman of the board of athletic control and director of athletics.

The situation at the school is complicated by the new residential units and the desire to provide an elaborate extra-mural program.

Stagg's Successor

Following the retirement of Amos Stagg, veteran athletic director of Chicago University, Thomas Nelson Metcalf (above) has been named as his successor. Metcalf has tendered his resignation from a similar post at Iowa State College to accept the new appointment. Stagg's retirement, the result of a university age limit statute, will be effective next June.

besides the regular intercollegiate activities.

Mr. Farmer, in a statement in the Yale Alumni weekly, asserts that for the University teams they will endeavor to have the best men obtainable.

Just where Mr. Stagg would fit in the Yale athletic camp, is hard to say, but the alumni who are sponsoring the move are confident that he would be a great asset to the new regime. Metcalf is the football coach and probably will remain as such, although there is some muttering of discontent over the sad manner in which the 1932 Yale grid season has begun.

Coach Stagg graduated from Yale with an athletic record that has scarcely been equalled before or since his time. He was a member of the Yale baseball team from 1884 to 1890, and pitched the blue to five successive baseball tilts from 1886 to 1890. He was captain of the team in 1888, and set a record that year of twenty strikeouts against Princeton.

In 1884 and 1885, Mr. Stagg was a member of the Yale football team, then dropped out of the sport for two years and returned to play from 1888 to 1890. In 1889

BOBCATS, CRIPPLED, SEEKING VICTORY

ATHENS, Oct. 20.—Ohio University this week-end will set out to win its fourth consecutive Buckeye conference championship.

Having scuttled the Navy and played almost on even terms with Indiana, Don Peden's Bobcats will go to Oxford Saturday to play Miami in the first Buckeye conference game of the year for the champions.

Miami, under its new coach, Frank Wilton, is using the Warner system, and is reputed to be much stronger than usual, with some of the strength it had in days past when Miami was to be dreaded in football.

Injuries may handicap the Bobcats. McCashen, tackle, and Hilbert, end, suffered injuries in the Navy game. Robinson, a sub but a capable one, probably will play quarterback. Corradini having been slightly hurt against the Middies.

STARS BROADCAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Headliners of the sports world will speak over the radio for charity next Sunday night.

Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Gar Wood, Tommy Hitchcock, Earle Sande, Willie Hoppe, Babe Didrickson, Ted Coy, Albie Booth, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Weissmuller, Vincent Richards and Eddie Tolan will be among those who will broadcast memories of their careers over the NBC and Columbia broadcasting systems at 10:30 to 11:15 p. m. (EST).

Harvard's band will play a medley representative of Eastern schools, the University of Illinois band will play stirring airs of the midwest, and the University of California musicians will play popular tunes of the Pacific coast.

It is part of the plan of the welfare and relief mobilization of 1932, whose chairman is Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, to call national attention to local drives being made in every community.

he was selected as end on the first "All-America" team.

It is known that the old man would not be averse to return to Yale. Like all sons of Eli, he still cherishes a love in his heart for his alma-mater, and he would be happy indeed if he could return to the old school to continue his work with the boys.

"Take Life Easy" Stagg Asserts

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—If you "take life easy," you will still be young at three score and ten, in the opinion of Amos Alonzo Stagg, now in his 41st year as head football coach at the University of Chicago and recently ordered retired next year.

The veteran grid mentor is qualified to give advice by the fact that, at 70, he plays a smashing game of tennis, keeps pace with the youth he trains on the football field, and possesses hard muscles and the best of health.

Shortly after he returned from the Olympic games and from Hollywood, where he took part in a motion picture, Coach Stagg was requested to give his "prescription" for living.

NEED GOOD START

"First of all," he replied, "you must come from a choice stock of parentage, and your parents must give you a common sense start in life."

"Then you must learn to understand your own machinery and how to take care of it."

"Eat plain, simple foods, avoiding all foolish stuff like hot dogs. I don't know what a hot dog tastes like, and I don't want to know. I have avoided these highly seasoned foods, because I want my stomach to do its work as nature intended it should."

Long an advocate of prohibition Coach Stagg was intensely earnest when he touched on the matter of temperance.

"I believe distinctly in temperance in all things," he explained. "Avoid all excesses. I have never used liquor or tobacco, not even tea or coffee. My feeling is that I am much better off without these things. They may do you no harm, but they do no good."

On the subject of exercise, the coach said:

Moderate Exercise

"Exercising should be moderate and in keeping with your own physical makeup. I still am able to work fourteen hours a day and I don't see that my vitality is impaired."

"During the day, when I am at mental work and feel foggy, I get up and run around the block to work up a new flow of blood. I try to get seven hours of sleep a night, even though I don't always seem to need it. After I get up I spend ten minutes in setting up exercises."

As he ended his "prescription," Coach Stagg glanced out his office window at his old-style electric runabout.

"None of your new, high-powered cars for me," he declared. "That old electric is just my pace. It takes things easy—and so do I."

A country is soft so long as every great man's conscience is troubled by injustice and wrong outside his own district."

PRO GAME HELPS CHARITY COFFERS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20.—The coffer of a Christmas fund was enriched by more than $6,000 today from the receipts of a charity football game in which the Chicago Bears defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 13 to 0, at the stadium last night before 20,000 cheering fans.

Benny Friedman, leader of the Brooklyn team and late of the University of Michigan eleven, shared the limelight at the contest with Harold (Red) Grange, former University of Illinois star who is now captain of the Bears.

Two intercepted lateral passes paved the way for the Bears' two touchdowns.

Our colleges now teach the young to speak all languages except English.

EXPERIENCE TELLS IN 'GRAD' FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—That professional experience counts more than college exploits in the National Football League is shown by the makeup of the eight teams comprising the major league circuit. Only three of these clubs are making their title bid with more than half the material made up of players fresh from college ranks.

In these three instances—Boston, Brooklyn and Stapleton—the presence of so many newcomers is apparently due to a complete re-making of the teams rather than to a belief that pro freshmen make good in their first season. Brooklyn under Benny Friedman was completely re-organized and has eleven men direct from college ranks, the Boston Braves making their initial appearance in the circuit have 19 players out of college ranks, and Stapleton under its new coach Harold Hanson, is making its bid with 17 freshmen.

Green Bay, three year champion, has Clark Hinkle and Joe Zeller from college ranks. The New York Giants also have only two inexperienced players, Shipwreck Kelly and Maurice Dubofsky. The Chicago Cardinals, even though Jack Chevigny is a new coach, have only four men directly from the undergraduate fields, while Portsmouth with seven and the Bears with eight, have a majority who have had one or more years in the circuit to season them.

SING SING'S STAR GUARD GRADUATED

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 20.—If football players shed fears, great rivers of crocodile drops from the eyes would be flooding Sing Sing prison today.

For the football season at the prison is only started and Jumbo Morano, 220-pound grid star, is gone.

Morano's term ended today and he turned in his football suit, as well as his prison garb. John Law, former Notre Dame captain, who is coaching the Sing Sing eleven, said the loss was great but he did not regret Morano's departure.

OUTSTANDING TRUCKS... TRUCK-BUILT TRAILERS... AND THE "KNOW HOW"

The Circleville Motors Company has all Three!

Unless you're a truck expert, you don't know how good a truck is until after you buy. But that's not true with General Motors Trucks and Trailers. Here's why—

First—the price. GMT's sell as low as $595, f. o. b. Pontiac, for a 6-cylinder, 66-horsepower, 1 1/2-ton job that is a hound for punishment. Specifications prove that it beats anything in its price class. And all the way up the line to the 20 ton unit, there's the same combination of advantages.

Next—there's the trailer advantage. GMT is the world's largest builder of both trucks and trailers. And naturally, GMT Trailers are more soundly engineered, longer lived, and more economical to buy and to operate

Finally—there's that "know how." We mean the knowledge and experience available to help you choose a truck or trailer that is just right for your needs. GMT Company spent two years finding out how successful truck users make money. This information is down on paper. It tells how trucks can be used profitably—and selected right. That's the "know how"—an advantage to you that no other dealer can offer!

We have all these things—right here. Why not drop around and let us show you what we can do to help you lick your truck problems?

Mal Stevens is the football coach and probably will remain as such, although there is some muttering of discontent over the sad manner in which the 1932 Yale grid season has begun.

Coach Stagg graduated from Yale with an athletic record that has scarcely been equalled before or since his time. He was a member of the Yale baseball team from 1884 to 1890, and pitched the blue to five successive baseball tilts from 1886 to 1890. He was captain of the team in 1888, and set a record that year of twenty strikeouts against Princeton.

In 1884 and 1885, Mr. Stagg was a member of the Yale football team, then dropped out of the sport for two years and returned to play from 1888 to 1890. In 1889

BOBCATS, CRIPPLED, SEEKING VICTORY

ATHENS, Oct. 20.—Ohio University this week-end will set out to win its fourth consecutive Buckeye conference championship.

Having scuttled the Navy and played almost on even terms with Indiana, Don Peden's Bobcats will go to Oxford Saturday to play Miami in the first Buckeye conference game of the year for the champions.

Miami, under its new coach, Frank Wilton, is using the Warner system, and is reputed to be much stronger than usual, with some of the strength it had in days past when Miami was to be dreaded in football.

Injuries may handicap the Bobcats. McCashen, tackle, and Hilbert, end, suffered injuries in the Navy game. Robinson, a sub but a capable one, probably will play quarterback, Corradini having been slightly hurt against the Middies.

STARS BROADCAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Headliners of the sports world will speak over the radio for charity next Sunday night.

Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Gar Wood, Tommy Hitchcock, Earle Sande, Willie Hoppe, Babe Didrickson, Ted Coy, Albie Booth, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Weissmuller, Vincent Richards and Eddie Tolan will be among those who will broadcast memories of their careers over the NBC and Columbia broadcasting systems at 10:30 to 11:15 p. m. (EST).

Harvard's band will play a medley representative of Eastern schools, the University of Illinois band will play stirring airs of the midwest, and the University of California musicians will play popular tunes of the Pacific coast.

It is part of the plan of the welfare and relief mobilization of 1932, whose chairman is Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, to call national attention to local drives being made in every community.

he was selected as end on the first "All-America" team.

It is known that the old man would not be averse to return to Yale. Like all sons of Eli, he still cherishes a love in his heart for his alma mater, and he would be happy indeed if he could return to the old school to continue his work with the boys.

"Take Life Easy" Stagg Asserts

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—If you "take life easy," you will still be young at three score and ten, in the opinion of Amos Alonzo Stagg, now in his 41st year as head football coach at the University of Chicago and recently ordered retired next year.

The veteran grid mentor is qualified to give advice by the fact that, at 70, he plays a smashing game of tennis, keeps pace with the youths he trains on the football field, and possesses hard muscles and the best of health.

Shortly after he returned from the Olympic games and from Hollywood, where he took part in a motion picture, Coach Stagg was requested to give his "prescription" for living.

NEED GOOD START

"First of all," he replied, "you must come from a choice stock of parentage, and your parents must give you a common sense start in life.

"Then you must learn to understand your own machinery and how to take care of it.

"Eat plain, simple foods, avoiding all foolish stuff like hot dogs. I don't know what a hot dog tastes like, and I don't want to know. I have avoided these highly seasoned foods, because I want my stomach to do its work as nature intended it should."

Long an advocate of prohibition, Coach Stagg was intensely earnest when he touched on the matter of temperance.

"I believe distinctly in temperance in all things," he explained. "Avoid all excesses. I have never used liquor or tobacco, not even tea or coffee. My feeling is that I am much better off without these things. They may do you no harm, but they do no good."

On the subject of exercise, the coach said:

MODERATE EXERCISE

"Exercising should be moderate and in keeping with your own physical makeup. I still am able to work fourteen hours a day and I don't see that my vitality is impaired.

"During the day, when I am at mental work and feel foggy, I get up and run around the block to work up a new flow of blood. "I try to get seven hours of sleep a night, even though I don't always seem to need it. After I get up I spend ten minutes in setting up exercises."

As he ended his "prescription," Coach Stagg glanced out his office window at his old-style electric runabout.

"None of your new, high-powered cars for me," he declared. "That old electric is just my pace. It takes things easy—and so do I."

A country is soft so long as every great man's conscience is troubled by injustice and wrong outside his own district.

PRO GAME HELPS CHARITY COFFERS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20.—The coffers of a Christmas fund were enriched by more than $6,000 today from the receipts of a charity football game in which the Chicago Bears defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 13 to 0, at the stadium last night before 20,000 cheering fans.

Benny Friedman, leader of the Brooklyn team and late of the University of Michigan eleven, shared the limelight at the contest with Harold (Red) Grange, former University of Illinois star who is now captain of the Bears.

Two intercepted lateral passes paved the way for the Bears' two touchdowns.

Our colleges now teach the young to speak all languages except English.

EXPERIENCE TELLS IN 'GRAD' FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—That professional experience counts more than college exploits in the National Football League is shown by the makeup of the eight teams comprising the major league circuit. Only three of these clubs are making their title bid with more than half the material made up of players fresh from college ranks.

In these three instances—Boston, Brooklyn and Staleton—the presence of so many newcomers is apparently due to a complete re-vamping of the teams rather than to a belief that pro freshmen make good in their first season. Brooklyn under Benny Friedman was completely re-organized and has eleven men direct from college ranks, the Boston Braves making their initial appearance in the circuit have 19 players out of college.

ranks, and Stapleton under its new coach Harold Hanson, is making its bid with 17 freshmen.

Green Bay, three year champion, has Clark Hinkle and Joe Zeller from college ranks. The New York Giants also have only two inexperienced players, Shipwreck Kelly and Maurice Dubofsky. The Chicago Cardinals, even though Jack Chevigny is a new coach, have only four men directly from the undergraduate fields, while Portsmouth with seven and the Bears with eight, have a majority who have had one or more years in the circuit to season them.

SING SING'S STAR GUARD GRADUATED

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 20.—If football players shed tears, great rivers of crocodile drops from the eyes would be flooding Sing Sing prison today.

For the football season at the prison is only started and 'Jumbo' Morano, 220-pound grid star, is gone.

Morano's term ended today and he turned in his football suit, as well as his prison garb.

John Law, former Notre Dame captain, who is coaching the Sing Sing eleven, said the loss was great but he did not regret Morano's departure.

The Circleville Motors Company has all Three!

Unless you're a truck expert, you don't know how good a truck is until after you operate buy. But that's not true with General Motors Trucks and Trailers. Here's why—

First—the price. GMT's sell as low as $595, f. o. b. Pontiac, for a 6-cylinder, 66-horsepower, 1 1/2-ton job that is a hound for punishment. Specifications prove that it beats anything in its price class. And all the way up the line to the 20 ton unit, there's the same combination of advantages.

Next—there's the trailer advantage. GMT is the world's largest builder of both trucks and trailers. And naturally, GMT Trailers are more soundly engineered, longer lived, problems?

OHIO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FIGHTS CONSTITUTION MEET

COLUMBUS, Oct. 20.— In a bulletin sent to member of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, they are urged to vote against and in other ways oppose the holding of a Constitutional Convention, which question is to be voted upon by the electors of Ohio at the November election this year. This question is submitted to the people at every 20 year period.

In its bulletin, the Ohio Chamber cites three specific reasons why such convention should be opposed, namely:

1. The benefits, if any, to come from such a convention would not be commensurate with the cost entailed; 2. There are already two easy ways available for mending the Constitution, namely, by action of the Legislature and through initiative petition, and; 3. By using these two methods for taking action and by taking up a section at a time, the people of Ohio can amend the constitution intelligently.

CONFUSION FEARED

The Chamber also maintains that when a great mass of constitutional amendments is submitted at one time, as would be the case if a constitutional convention were held, confusion is bound to result and ill-considered amendments are almost certain to be adopted.

The constitutional convention of 1912, the Chamber points out, cost the state of Ohio $190,701.09 and it is highly probable that another constitutional convention would cost very much more.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce officials state that their position in opposition to the holding of such a convention is supported by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, the Ohio State Grange, real estate, manufacturers and other prominent organizations; practically all of whom fear that such a convention might result in drafting an amendment or amendments which might tend to break down the tax limitations on real estate. These organizations are against anything or any proposal which might result in imposition of higher taxes.

The Chamber's bulletin reviews the conventions of 1850-51; that of 1873-74 and that of 1912. One of the products of the 1912 convention was the initiative and referendum provision of the constitution, which, it is contended, makes unnecessary a convention at this time.

LAST IN 1912

In reviewing the 1912 convention, the Ohio Chamber points out that it was composed of 119 members of the following callings: 45 lawyers; 23 farmers; 5 bankers; 4 college professors; 4 physicians; 4 ministers; 3 manufacturers; 3 carpenters; 3 retired; 2 teachers; 2 fruit growers; 2 merchants; 2 editors; 1 miner; 1 lather; 1 waiter; 1 accountant; 1 deputy clerk of courts; 1 iron moulder; 1 foreman; 1 capitalist; 1 solicitor; 1 druggist; 1 lumber man; 1 civil engineer; 1 real estate man; 1 glass worker; 1 grain dealer; 1 printer and 1 oil operator.

Three hundred and forty proposals for amending the constitution were then submitted to committees; 60 were reported without amendments and 105 were reported out with recommendation that they be indefinitely postponed.

As a result of that convention, 42 constitutional amendments were formulated and submitted to the people. The people approved of 34 of them.

If the voters cast their ballot for a constitutional convention this year, it must be convened at the expense of the taxpayers of the state, and of the mass of amendments which would come from the convention, some, it is contended, would be harmful to the recovery of business. These are the general grounds upon which the Ohio Chamber of Commerce is urging a "no" vote on the proposal to hold a constitutional convention.

CHANGE IN RURAL CHURCH STUDIED

Meeting To Be Held At Walnut-St M. E. Church, Chillicothe, on Oct. 31.

To consider frankly the changes which have swept into rural life in America in recent years, and to discuss how the churches may serve the religious needs of rural communities more effectively in this new day, is the purpose of the series of one-day Regional Conferences on Rural Church Work, to be held in south-eastern Ohio, October 27 to November 4.

Dr. Edwin E. Sundt, New York, Rural Church specialist of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, author of "The Country Church and Our Generation," is to be the principal speaker.

One of these conferences will be held at Chillicothe at the Walnut-St M. E. church, Monday morning and afternoon, October 31.

Pastors and lay people and rural organization leaders of Pickawav. Ross and adjacent counties will be expected to attend.

Demonstrational executives who have supervision of churches in this region are co-operating thru the Ohio Council of Churches in sponsoring these conferences.

Doctors, dentists, lawyers and bankers are busy men. If you just "drop in" to see them, you are very likely to be disappointed. They may be out of town—or out to lunch. Or even more likely, they will be too busy to see you—busy with people who have telephoned for appointments.

People are apt to take you at your own valuation. If you waste your time and energy, they will be inclined to do the same. Don't let them do it. Telephone before you start out—always.

PLAN TO RE-ENACT WASHINGTON TOUR

River Pageant To Begin North of East Liverpool Friday Afternoon.

A river pageant that will begin Friday, Oct. 21, north of East Liverpool, and follow George Washington's journey down the Ohio River as far as Point Pleasant, West Virginia, has been arranged by joint state commissions of Ohio and West Virginia as the major celebration in the middle west of the George Washington Bicentennial.

Ten men, portraying Washington, his aides, and Indian servants, will re-enact George Washington's down river trip made in 1770 and described in his diaries. They will make over-night stops at each of the known camp sites of the Washington party and appropriate ceremonies are being arranged by local agencies at each of the sites.

The daughters of the American Revolution will join the ceremonies by placing and dedicating markers at four camp sites during the course of the celebration.

The men portraying the characters in the Washington surveying party will travel in a powered flat boat accompanied by two men in an Indian canoe. At each camp site, the men will land, pitch a camp, and re-enact, as accurately as possible, the episodes which Washington experienced at that camp site. In several instances, pageantry will dramatize the occurrences on both his down river and up river trips.

The itinerary of the voyage on the Ohio with places and date where celebrations will be held is as follows:

Oct. 21—East Liverpool.
Oct. 22—Mingo Junction.
Oct. 23—Short Creek, West Virginia.
Oct. 24—Powhatan Point, Ohio.
Oct. 25—Fly, Ohio, and Sistersville, West Virginia.
Oct. 26—Reno—Marietta, Ohio.
Oct. 27—Hockingport, Ohio.
Oct. 28—Shade River, Ohio.
Oct. 29—Racine (Meigs County), Ohio.
Oct. 30—Shawnee Town, West Virginia.
Oct. 31—Point Pleasant, West Virginia.

Thousands of automobiles will turn in the direction of these points beginning with the weekend on Oct. 21st and continuing until the final celebration at Point Pleasant on Oct. 31st. The boat with the actors in this pageant will appear at the places above named in the afternoon on the respective dates at about 2 o'clock.

Recipes

Those light desserts which so admirably add the finishing touch to the well-planned menu—are they really appreciated? One's appetite has been served, usually, by the time dessert arrives and unless it looks or tastes very, very appetizing, it is just taken as a matter of "course."

Desserts like "Baked Alaska, Pear Shortcake and Apple Crumb" will awaken interest.

PEACH CUSTARD

2 C. milk;
2 egg yolks;
1 egg white;
2 T. sugar;
1-4 t. vanilla;
Pinch salt;
2 egg whites.

Use one and one half peaches for each serving. Slice into buttered individual custard cups or baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar and let stand while preparing custard. Beat all the ingredients listed above except the two egg whites and pour over peaches. Set in water and bake in a slow oven (325 deg.) Make a meringue with the whites, using 4 T. sugar. When custards are beginning to set, pile the meringue on them in large fluffy spoonfuls. Allow to brown. Serve cold.

PEAR SHORTCAKE

6 large, very ripe pears;
1-2 C. Confectioners' sugar;
1-2 lemon;
1-8 t. salt;
1-2 pt. whipping cream;
1-2 t. vanilla;
1 T. confectioners' sugar;
1-2 t. almond flavoring.

Pare, core and cut pears in small pieces. To this add juice of 1-2 lemons, a bit of grated rind and 1-2 C. confectioners' sugar. When thoroughly chilled force through a potato ricer and fold into stiffly beaten egg whites to which the salt has been added. All ingredients should be kept very cold. Split the cakes, fill with the mixture and fit cake together again. Top with whipped cream flavored with vanilla and 1 T. confectioners' sugar.

APPLE CRUMB

4 sour apples;
1-2 C. butter or margarine;
1 C. brown sugar;
1 C. flour.

Butter a baking dish and cover with sliced tart apples. Work butter, sugar and flour together until the mixture is like granulated sugar. Spread over apples. Bake in a hot oven 10 minutes, then reduce heat and bake until apples are soft and crumbs browned. Serve with cream, either whipped or plain. Makes 8 servings. Time in baking: 10 min. at 400 deg.; 20 min. at 325 deg.

SPONGE CAKE

1 egg;
2 yolks (left from filling);
1 C. sugar;
1 t. baking powder;
1-4 C. flour;
1-8 t. salt;
2-3 C. boiling water.

Beat eggs five minutes and add other ingredients in order given. Stir in boiling water and turn at once into well greased gem pans or a shallow baking pan. Bake in slow oven (325 deg.) until well raised then increase temperature to finish baking. About 30 minutes will be required for baking.

BAKED ALASKA

1 sponge cake;
1 pt. ice cream;
3 egg whites;
1 t. sugar;
1 t. vanilla;
Salt.

Remove center from top of cake, leaving a shell at least 3-4 inch in thickness. Fill with ice cream and cover with meringue made by beating eggs and adding sugar and vanilla. Bake in a hot oven, 450 deg., until light brown and serve at once. Individual service may be prepared in the same way, but an extra egg white with more sugar will be needed to prepare six servings.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuritis, sciatica, pain, neuralgia, rheumatism, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Benoit (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. It is in full in 10 minutes and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Benoit, (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real relief.

OHIO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FIGHTS CONSTITUTION MEET

COLUMBUS, Oct. 20.—In a bulletin sent to member of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, they are urged to vote against and in other ways oppose the holding of a Constitutional Convention, which question is to be voted upon by the electors of Ohio at the November election this year. This question is submitted to the people at every 20 year period.

In its bulletin, the Ohio Chamber cites three specific reasons why such convention should be opposed, namely:

1. The benefits, if any, to come from such a convention would not be commensurate with the cost entailed;
2. There are already two easy ways available for mending the Constitution, namely, by action of the Legislature and through initiative petition; and
3. By using these two methods for taking action and by taking up a section at a time, the people of Ohio can amend the constitution intelligently.

CONFUSION FEARED

The Chamber also maintains that when a great mass of constitutional amendments is submitted at one time, as would be the case if a constitutional convention were held, confusion is bound to result and illy-considered amendments are almost certain to be adopted.

The constitutional convention of 1912, the Chamber points out, cost the state of Ohio $190,701.09 and it is highly probable that another constitutional convention would cost very much more.

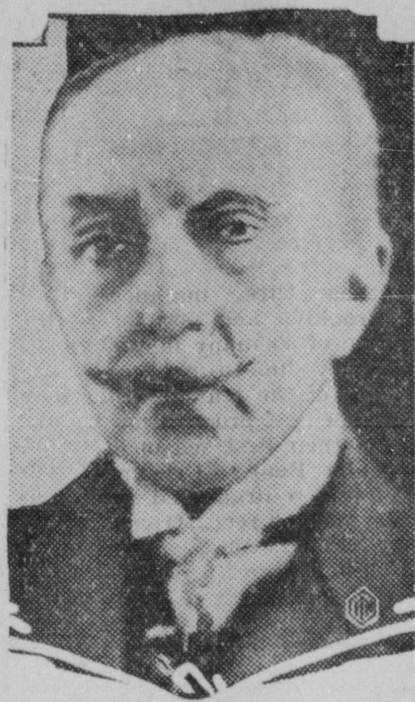

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce officials state that their position in opposition to the holding of such a convention is supported by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, the Ohio State Grange, real estate, manufacturers and other prominent organizations; practically all of whom fear that such a convention might result in drafting an amendment or amendments which might tend to break down the tax limitations on real estate. These organizations are against anything or any proposal which might result in imposition of higher taxes.

The Chamber's bulletin reviews the conventions of 1850-51; that of 1873-74 and that of 1912. One of the products of the 1912 convention was the initiative and referendum provision of the constitution, which, it is contended, makes unnecessary a convention at this time.

LAST IN 1912

In reviewing the 1912 convention, the Ohio Chamber points out

Seriously Ill

Suffering from a paralytic stroke, the third he has had in recent years, Marquis Boni de Castellane, former husband of Anna Gould, American heiress, and for many years the most conspicuous figure in French society, is in a critical condition in Paris. Count Boni, as he is known in the United States, is 64.

that it was composed of 119 members of the following callings: 45 lawyers; 23 farmers; 5 bankers; 4 college professors; 4 physicians; 4 ministers; 3 manufacturers; 3 carpenters; 3 retired; 2 teachers; 2 fruit growers; 2 merchants; 2 editors; 1 miner; 1 lather; 1 waiter; 1 accountant; 1 deputy clerk of courts; 1 iron moulder; 1 foreman; 1 capitalist; 1 solicitor; 1 druggist; 1 lumber man; 1 civil engineer; 1 real estate man; 1 glass worker; 1 grain dealer; 1 printer and 1 oil operator.

Three hundred and forty proposals for amending the constitution were then submitted to committees; 60 were reported without amendments and 105 were reported out with recommendation that they be indefinitely postponed.

As a result of that convention, 42 constitutional amendments were formulated and submitted to the people. The people approved of 34 of them.

If the voters cast their ballot for a constitutional convention this year, it must be convened at the expense of the taxpayers of the state, and of the mass of amendments which would come from the convention, some, it is contended, would be harmful to the recovery of business. These are the general grounds upon which the Ohio Chamber of Commerce is urging a "no" vote on the proposal to hold a constitutional convention.

PLAN TO RE-ENACT WASHINGTON TOUR

River Pageant To Begin North of East Liverpool Friday Afternoon.

A river pageant that will begin Friday, Oct. 21, north of East Liverpool, and follow George Washington's journey down the Ohio River as far as Point Pleasant, West Virginia, has been arranged by joint state commissions of Ohio and West Virginia as the major celebration in the middle west of the George Washington Bicentennial.

Ten men, portraying Washington, his aides, and Indian servants, will re-enact George Washington's down river trip made in 1770 and described in his diaries. They will make over-night stops at each of the known camp sites of the Washington party and appropriate ceremonies are being arranged by local agencies at each of the sites.

The Daughters of the American Revolution will join the ceremonies by placing and dedicating markers at four camp sites during the course of the celebration.

The men portraying the characters in the Washington surveying party will travel in a powered flat boat accompanied by two men in an Indian canoe. At each camp site, the men will land, pitch a camp, and re-enact, as accurately as possible, the episodes which Washington experienced at that camp site. In several instances, pageantry will dramatize the occurrences on both his down river and up river trips.

The itinerary of the voyage on the Ohio with places and date where celebrations will be held is as follows:

- Oct. 21—East Liverpool.
- Oct. 22—Mingo Junction.
- Oct. 23—Short Creek, West Virginia.
- Oct. 24—Powhatan Point, Ohio.
- Oct. 25—Fly, Ohio, and Sistersville, West Virginia.
- Oct. 26—Reno—Marietta, Ohio.
- Oct. 27—Hockingport, Ohio.
- Oct. 28—Shade River, Ohio.
- Oct. 29—Racine (Meigs County), Ohio.
- Oct. 30—Shawnee Town, West Virginia.
- Oct. 31—Point Pleasant, West Virginia.

Thousands of automobiles will turn in the direction of these points beginning with the weekend on Oct. 21st and continuing until the final celebration at Point Pleasant on Oct. 31st. The boat with the actors in this pageant will appear at the places above named in the afternoon on the respective dates at about 2 o'clock.

Recipes

Those light desserts which so admirably add the finishing touch to the well-planned menu—are they really appreciated? One's appetite has been served, usually, by the time dessert arrives and unless it looks or tastes very, very appetizing, it is just taken as a matter of "course."

Desserts like "Baked Alaska, Pear Shortcake and Apple Crumb" will awaken interest.

PEACH CUSTARD

- 2 C. milk;
- 3 egg yolks;
- 1 egg white;
- 2 T. sugar;
- 1-4 t. vanilla;
- Pinch salt;

Use one and one half peaches for each serving. Slice into buttered individual custard cups or baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar and let stand while preparing custard. Beat all the ingredients listed above except the two egg whites and pour over peaches. Set in water and bake in a slow oven (325 deg.) Make a meringue with the whites, using 4 T. sugar. When custards are beginning to set, pile the meringue on them in large fluffy spoonfuls. Allow to brown. Serve cold.

PEAR SHORTCAKE

CHANGE IN RURAL CHURCH STUDIED

Meeting To Be Held At Walnut-St M. E. Church, Chillicothe, on Oct. 31.

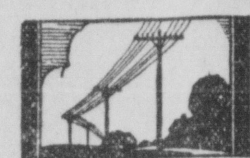

To consider frankly the changes which have swept into rural life in America in recent years, and to discuss how the churches may serve the religious needs of rural communities more effectively in this new day, is the purpose of the series of one-day Regional Conferences on Rural Church Work, to be held in south-eastern Ohio, October 27 to November 4.

Dr. Edwin E. Sundt, New York, Rural Church specialist of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, author of "The Country Church and Our Generation," is to be the principal speaker.

One of these conferences will be held at Chillicothe at the Walnut-St M. E. church, Monday morning and afternoon, October 31.

Pastors and lay people and rural organization leaders of Pickawav, Ross and adjacent counties will be expected to attend.

Demonstration executives who have supervision of churches in this region are co-operating through the Ohio Council of Churches in sponsoring these conferences.

What America Needs

DISCUSSING the tremendous buying-power awaiting release in the United States, a leading financial writer states the proposition, "when more money begins to be made, more money will begin to be spent." That is as true as the depression is a fact, but it is sort of putting the cart before the horse. When more money is spent, more money will be made, for everything else awaits the breaking of the buyers' strike. Some idea of the dammed up buying power is obtained from the results of a survey among the employees of a corporation doing business in every state. Each worker was asked the things his family needed and would buy if assured continuous employment. On the basis of their answers the American people are waiting the opportunity to buy 3,096,000 new homes, 6,606,000 automobiles, 8,838,000 refrigerators, 1,494,000 house heating plants, 4,986,000 washing machines, 3,704,000 radios, 2,900,000 ironing machines, 1,990,000,000 in rugs and floor coverings, $451,656,000 in musical instruments, $1,494,000,000 in women's clothing and $2,568,000,000 in men's clothing. Here is enough potential business to give the country a period of prosperity beside which the last would seem like a panic and it is only a matter of time when it shall be converted into actual business. It is a big job for big business.

Whether this vision of boundless business shall merely tantalize or shall provide an impetus for enterprise and initiative, will determine whether it shall become a fact. It rests largely with business whether the rank and file shall ever again afford automobiles, electric refrigerators, costly house furnishings, expensive jewelry and homes that rival those of the rich of a generation ago.

Business might take a lesson from the war and crawl into a better hole.

Missing the Point

IN coming out for modification of the anti-trust laws and the broadening of the base of taxation the American Bar Association has added considerable impetus to both movements. The influence and prestige of the country's leading lawyers and judges are not to be discounted.

Modification of the anti-trust laws and the broadening of the base of taxation, the American Bar Association has added considerable impetus to both movements. The influence and prestige of the country's leading lawyers and judges are not to be discounted. Modification of the anti-trust laws is proposed to restore to industry and business the right of self-regulation and to soften the criminal, threefold damage and confiscatory provisions of the Sherman act. Another change urged by the Association would make trade contracts automatically effective where no objection is raised by the department of justice or an interested person.

It is the opinion of two committees of the association that these changes would aid in the rehabilitation of the bituminous coal industry and other industries suffering from overproduction and ruinous competition.

A tax system less susceptible to fluctuations in business activity than income taxes is recommended by the committee on federal taxation, which apparently has in mind as a substitute plan a general sales tax.

Unfortunately, the committee on taxation did not lend its weight to the movement for reduction of government costs. The issue today is not how to keep taxes up but how to bring government costs down. Won't the committee work in session a while longer to work upon a more flexible government machine, which will govern its fuel consumption by the supply?

Wishing to keep its hide, the wolf avoids some doors.

There hasn't been a fire in Washington now for several weeks, but if there were another, and Dolly and Alice were among the guests, who would jump first?

CHAPTER ONE

"Marriage is like reading a novel without suspense. No matter how charmed you may be at first with the words, a sustained effort demands little surprises, little moments of not knowing what's going to happen," Pamela said abruptly. Her brooding dark eyes rested on her husband taking head dives into the breakers.

The beach glittered in the morning light. Noisy throngs overran it. Gregarious women "taking the sun" in the shade of hooded chairs. Girls and men sprawling on the sand or playing under enormous many hued umbrellas in amazing array. Overhead a violent blue sky. Clouds like lamb's fleece. And sun. White hot sun. Palm Beach in late February.

"The difference is that you can put a book down, but even in this age it isn't so simple to put down a husband," the woman continued in her slow drawl.

Patricia, sitting on the sand beside Pamela's chair, lifted amazed blue eyes to the beautiful dark profile.

"Why, Aunt Pam!" she cried. "Have I shocked you?" Pamela's remote gaze turned to the bright young face.

"If any other woman had said to me what you have just said," retorted Patricia, "and if her husband were Mr. Warren, or as attractive and eligible as Mr. Warren is, I'd vamp him away from her."

Pamela Warren laughed negligently. "It would no doubt amuse me to see how Jimmie would react to a vamp."

"But suppose his reaction was to love her, what would you do?"

"Don't be absurd, darling."

"Why is it so absurd? Even Palm Beach gets an attack of cold sometimes. What would you do?"

"One never knows positively what one would do; but I think if Jimmie wanted another woman I'd stop out. Why not? However," she said lightly, "I can't be a party, angel child, to your designs on the handsome person and eligible bank account of my husband. Chiefly because these matters require time, and you haven't any time to waste."

"What do you mean by that?"

"That your father has exhausted himself on your education. Jimmie and I would gladly help him if he'd accept it. But any help we might give him would be—well, just a gift. We would know he could never pay. And so would he. That would make it an insult to his pride to offer. I'd gladly take care of you next winter, but I doubt if he'll let me do it this summer. And besides there he is—an old man, homeless, and—"

"We have the plantation."

"It's gone. The caving has been very rapid these past four years that you've been in school. I've an idea the reason Cousin John never took you home during vacation, but always met you somewhere, was because he didn't want you to see the havoc. Even the house is gone. Your father lives in a little shack on the back of the land. You've been living, are living now, on the price of your beautiful furniture."

"Oh, Aunt Pam!" Patricia covered her face with her hands.

"I didn't tell you to hurt you, Jack. You had to know."

"Of course. Oh, my darling Daddy, why have you done this?"

"It wasn't his fault, dear."

"Oh, I mean all the money he's spent on me."

"Well, there are two ways of looking at it. He might have saved it and the two of you eked out a miserable living on it for several years longer, and you would have had no opportunities, no future. Instead, he has used it to give you a chance. And the reason I talked to you as I did about marriage was because I felt if you knew the truth, as I know it, you would know there's no use in being sentimental. It wears off. The thing to do is to select a man who can fill your life with material beauty and make your father's last days comfortable as he has made yours in the past. Harvey Blaine is such a man."

Brushing off her hat with an impatient gesture, she dropped on the sand.

"He has a face like an old horse," stormed Patricia.

"He's enormously wealthy, and the shape of his face is a minor thing. You'd get used to that as one has to get used to so many things in married life. He's a gentleman, and would take good care of you. He has asked me to put in a good word for him. The word I'm putting in is for you and—"

"Don't talk any more, Aunt Pam!" Patricia's hands dropped into her lap. Her eyes were dry, burning. She threw back her head, lifting her small white face to the sky in a gesture of supplication. They slowly pulled on her hat, she rose. "Aunt Pam, may I take your car? I saw Ben this morning, and he told me he'd brought it down. I want to get away for a while—by myself."

"Of course, child. But hadn't you better let Ben drive you?"

"No. I want to be alone."

"Well, don't drive recklessly. You are in a reckless mood."

"You needn't worry. I'm all Daddy has. I shan't forget that."

Pamela sighed. Her sports costume of rough oyster-white brought out the rich olive tints of her skin, the satiny sheen of her black hair and deepened the velvet dusk of her large bored eyes.

Eight years ago Pamela St. John, the most beautiful debutante of the season, having an enormous fortune in her own right, had converted society into a collection of exclamations by rejecting a title to marry Jimmie Warren, a gay youngster who had nothing to offer her but himself and a little matter of a fortune no greater than her own. Tumultuously in love, she had married him against beleaguering opposition.

That her marriage, in spite of an overwhelming love on her side and Jimmie's, had gone the way of most marriages, she accepted as she accepted the fortunate conditions of her life. She had given up trying to understand—given up the hot white rebellion that had torn her in earlier years, retreating behind indifference and hopeless weariness.

It had never occurred to her that she could love any other man. Comparing his fine form, his rugged blondness and engaging manner with the men of her set, she was wont to acknowledge with a faint glow of pride that there was not one among them who was his equal.

Demanding the eternal love, she resented Jimmie's taking her for granted. She had not ceased to love him; she had simply ceased to find adventure in his love as he grew more and more the friend; less the lover. Her boredom had increased proportionately. Life had grown more and more flat and stale.

Parking the car, Patricia turned into a deep new path cut through the tangle of mangrove and seagrasses which separated the road from the beach. A small, very recent buckled in the breeze on the sea side of the jungle. Near it was a dead fire, a pile of newly opened tins. Below it, a new dory was beached.

She paused, minded to seek solitude further on. The emptiness of a newborn world spread itself before her defiant search. Interminable miles of sea and sand. Beyond the jungle hedge, life roared in endless procession.

With a shrug she continued down to the sea, and brushing off her hat with an impatient gesture, dropped on the sand. Her hair, worn in tumbled curls, was so pale that it held a silver sheen, welding with out joint to the enormous light. Her sports jacket formed the one splash of red on a vastness of stirring green and gold and blue.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Unlike the scores of Broadway's potential Sarah Bernhards and John Drews, Tom Keene, popular western cowboy star who comes to the Cliftona Theatre in "Come On Danger" Saturday only, deserted the footlights and spotlights to don the chaps and bandana on the expansive ranges of the stanch and rugged West.

Born on a New York farm, Keene ran away from home at the age of nine years. Five years later he was "punching" cattle on a Montana ranch. Another five years passed and Keene was "up in lights" on the Main Stem of Broadway, playing the lead in "White Cargo."

Keene's popularity and fame caught New York, and he was besieged with offers by the leading legitimate stage producers. Keene preferred the screen, and played the lead in a film subject produced by an advertising concern. As a result of his first screen appearance, which was highly satisfactory, the producer sent the film to Cecil B. De Mille. A week later Tom Keene was enroute to Hollywood.

What America Needs

DISCUSSING the tremendous buying power awaiting release in the United States, a leading financial writer states the proposition, "when more money begins to be made, more money will be spent." That is as true as the depression is a fact, but it is sort of putting the cart before the horse. When more money is spent more money will be made, for everything else awaits the breaking of the buyers' strike. Some idea of the dammed up buying power is obtained from the results of a survey among the employees of a corporation doing business in every state. Each worker was asked the things his family needed and would buy if assured continuous employment. On the basis of their answers the American people are waiting the opportunity to buy 3,096,000 new homes, 6,606,000 automobiles, 8,838,000 refrigerators, 1,494,000 house heating machines, 4,986,000 washing machines, 3,704,000 radios, 2,900,000 ironing machines, $1,990,000 in rugs and floor coverings, $451,656,000 in musical instruments, $1,494,000 in women's clothing and $2,568,000,000 in men's clothing.

Here is enough potential business to give the country a period of prosperity beside which the last would seem like a panic and it is only a matter of time when it shall be converted into actual business. It is a big job for big business.

Whether this vision of boundless business shall merely tantalize or shall provide an impetus for enterprise and initiative, will determine whether it shall become a fact. It rests largely with business whether the rank and file shall ever again afford automobiles, electric refrigerators, costly house furnishings, expensive jewelry and homes that rival those of the rich of a generation ago.

Business might take a lesson from the war and crawl into a better role.

Missing the Point

IN coming out for modification of the anti-trust laws and the broadening of the base of taxation "the American Bar Association has added considerable impetus to both movements. The influence and prestige of the country's leading lawyers and judges are not to be discounted.

Modification of the anti-trust laws and the broadening of the base of taxation the American Bar Association has added considerable impetus to both movements. The influence and prestige of the country's leading lawyers and judges are not to be discounted.

Modification of the anti-trust laws is proposed to restore to industry and business the right of self-regulation and to soften the criminal, threefold damage and confiscatory provisions of the Sherman act. Another change urged by the Association would make trade contracts automatically effective where no objection is raised by the department of justice or an interested person.

It is the opinion of two committees of the association that these changes would aid in the rehabilitation of the bituminous coal industry and other industries suffering from overproduction and ruinous competition.

A tax system less susceptible to fluctuations in business activity than income taxes is recommended by the committee on federal taxation, which apparently has in mind as a substitute plan a general sales tax.

Unfortunately, the committee on taxation did not lend its weight to the movement for reduction of government costs. The issue today is not how to keep taxes up but how to bring government costs down. Won't the committee remain in session a while longer to work upon a more flexible government machine, which will govern its fuel consumption by the supply?

Wishing to keep its hide, the wolf avoids some doors.

There hasn't been a fire in Washington now for several weeks, but if there were another, and Dolly and Alice were among the guests, who would jump first?

The machine age creates new problems in morality because so many mistake the still, small voice of conscience for another body squeak.

Chicago's world's fair of 1933 seems to be off to a favorable start. Chicago already has the defeat.

HEART STRINGS

By EDWINA L. MACDONALD
COPYRIGHT, 1932 BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER ONE

"Marriage is like reading a novel without suspense. No matter how charmed you may be at first with the words, a sustained effort demands little surprises, little moments of not knowing what's going to happen," Pamela said abruptly. Her brooding dark eyes rested on her husband taking head dives into the breakers.

The beach glittered in the morning light. Noisy throngs overran it. Gregarious women "taking the sun" in the shade of hooded chairs. Girls and men sprawling on the sand or playing under enormous many hued umbrellas in amazing array. Overhead a violent blue sky. Clouds like lamb's fleece. And sun. White hot sun. Palm Beach in late February.

"The difference is that you can put a book down, but even in this age it isn't so simple to put down a husband," the woman continued in her slow drawl.

Patricia, sitting on the sand beside Pamela's chair, lifted amazed blue eyes to the beautiful dark profile.

"Why, Aunt Pam!" she cried. "Have I shocked you?" Pamela's remote gaze turned to the bright young face.

"If any other woman had said to me what you have just said," retorted Patricia, "and if her husband were Mr. Warren, or as attractive and eligible as Mr. Warren is, I'd vamp him away from her."

Pamela Warren laughed negligently. "It would no doubt amuse me to see how Jimmie would react to a vamp."

"But suppose his reaction was to love her, what would you do?"

"Don't be absurd, darling."

"Why is it so absurd? Even Palm Beach gets an attack of cold sometimes. What would you do?"

"One never knows positively what one would do; but I think if Jimmie wanted another woman I'd step out. Why not? However," she said lightly, "I can't be a party, angel child, to your designs on the handsome person and eligible bank account of my husband. Chiefly because these matters require time, and you haven't any time to waste."

"What do you mean by that?"

"That your father has exhausted himself on your education. Jimmie and I would gladly help him if he'd accept it. But any help we might give him would be—well, just a gift. We would know he could never pay. And so would he. That would make it an insult to his pride to offer. I'd gladly take care of you next winter; but I doubt if he'll let me do it this summer. And besides there he is—an old man, homeless, and—"

"We have the plantation."

"It's gone. The caving has been very rapid these past four years that you've been in school. I've an idea the reason Cousin John never took you home during vacation, but always met you somewhere, was because he didn't want you to see the havoc. Even the house is gone. Your father lives in a little shack on the back of the land. You've been living, are living now, on the price of your beautiful furniture."

"Oh, Aunt Pam!" Patricia covered her face with her hands.

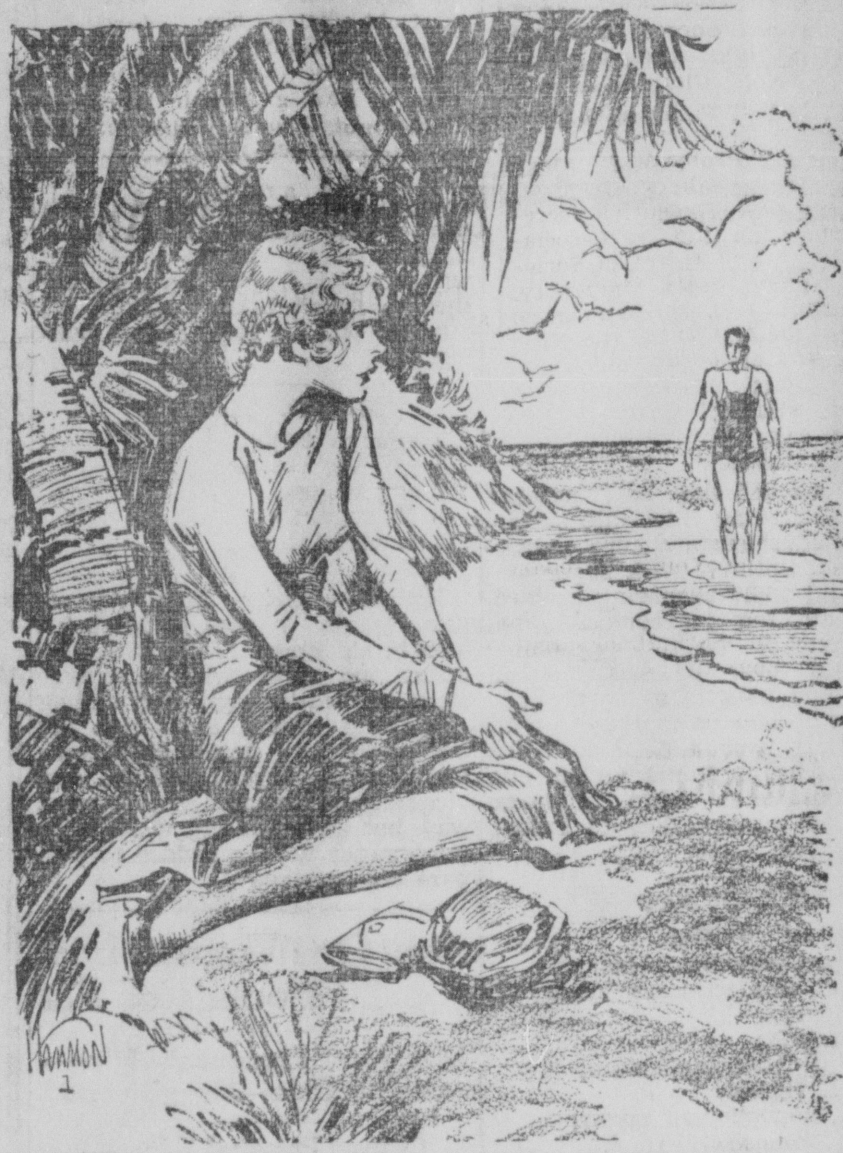

"I didn't tell you to hurt you, dear. You had to know."

"Of course. Oh, my darling Daddy, why have you done this?"

"It wasn't his fault, dear."

"Oh, I mean all the money he's spent on me."

"Well, there are two ways of looking at it. He might have saved it and the two of you eked out a miserable living on it for several years longer, and you would have had no opportunities, no future. Instead, he has used it to give you a chance. And the reason I talked to you as I did about marriage was because I felt if you knew the truth, as I know it, you would know there's no use in being sentimental. It wears off. The thing to do is to select a man who can fill your life with material beauty and make your father's last days comfortable as he has made yours in the past. Harvey Blaine is such a man."

Brushing off her hat with an impatient gesture, she dropped on the sand.

"He has a face like an old horse," stormed Patricia.

"He's enormously wealthy, and the shape of his face is a minor thing. You'd get used to that as one has to get used to so many things in married life. He's a gentleman, and would take good care of you. He has asked me to put in a good word for him. The word I'm putting in is for you and—"

"Don't talk any more, Aunt Pam." Patricia's hands dropped into her lap. Her eyes were dry, burning. She threw back her head, lifting her small white face to the sky in a gesture of supplication. Then, slowly pulling on her hat, she rose. "Aunt Pam, may I take your car? I saw Ben this morning, and he told me he'd brought it down. I want to get away for a while—by myself."

"Of course, child. But hadn't you better let Ben drive you?"

"No. I want to be alone."

"Well, don't drive recklessly. You are in a reckless mood."

"You needn't worry. I'm all Daddy has. I shan't forget that."

Pamela sighed. Her sports costume of rough oyster-white brought out the rich olive tints of her skin.

The satiny sheen of her black hair and deepened the velvet dusk of her large bored eyes.

Eight years ago Pamela St. John, the most beautiful debutante of the season, having an enormous fortune in her own right, had converted society into a collection of exclamations by rejecting a title to marry Jimmie Warren, a gay youngster who had nothing to offer her but himself and a little matter of a fortune no greater than her own. Tumultuously in love, she had married him against beleaguering opposition.

YOUTH OF OHIO'S CHURCHES TO STUDY ECONOMIC PROBLEM

Youth selected from the 88 counties of Ohio are to face the present day economic problem critically and constructively at a State Youth Conference to be held at Springfield on Oct. 21, 22, 23. School authorities believe the conference so significant that students are being excused on Friday afternoon to attend this week-end gathering of select Ohio Young People.

Special features of the conference include a great banquet on Saturday night at the field house of Wittenberg College attended by a group that will probably reach 1,000. The banquet is to be followed by a play entitled "The Unhatched Cross," directed by L. M. Layton, an experienced dramatic leader.

Each address is to be discussed under the direction of 20 skilled group leaders chosen from outstanding Youth leaders in Ohio and other states.

Among the subjects to be discussed are What Conditions in Ohio Mine Areas Do Men; What Economic Conditions Are Doing to Men. Is an Economic Situation Possible that Will provide Employment, Food, Clothing, Comfort and Happiness to All; and The Church's Contribution to the Solution of the Problem.

Among the speakers are Prof. Perry D. Donhue, Executive Secretary of The Ohio Welfare Association and the Department of Sociology of Ohio State University.

Rev. John Sharpe of Belmont, who has spent years in the Mine and Pottery areas of Ohio, Dean Thomas W. Graham of Oberlin College and Dr. J. Harry Cotton, 1932 lecturer of the Joseph Cook Foundation, who has recently returned from an eight months tour of the Orient.

TAX SITUATION IN STATES SCHOOL DISTRICTS EXPOSED

How school districts in 11 Ohio counties obtained and spent their money in 1930 is shown in data prepared by H. R. Moore and F. L. Morison, rural economists for the Ohio State university and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Property Taxation, the economists state, supplied 85 per cent of total school district income. State aid to financially weaker districts amounted to 8.5 per cent, and such commercial receipts as tuition, sales of used equipment, and interest brought in 6.5 per cent of the income.

Of the total expenditures, teachers' salaries represented 43 per cent, and other operation and maintenance costs totaled 28.8 per cent. Capital outlays for land and permanent equipment, principally buildings, took 14.5 per cent.

Debt service, consisting of interest and debt payments, equalled 13.7 per cent of the total school district expenditures, according to Moore and Morison. Capital outlays are largely financed by borrowing, and debt service represents the annual payments for past expenditures.

YOUTH OF OHIO'S CHURCHES TO STUDY ECONOMIC PROBLEM

Youth selected from the 88 counties of Ohio are to face the present day economic problem critically and constructively at a State Youth Conference to be held at Springfield on Oct. 21, 22, 23.

School authorities believe the conference so significant that students are being excused on Friday afternoon to attend this week-end gathering of select Ohio Young People.

Special features of the conference include a great banquet on Saturday night at the field house of Wittenberg College attended by a group that will probably reach 1,000. The banquet is to be followed by a play entitled—"The Unlighted Cross," directed by L. M. Layton, an experienced dramatic leader.

Each address is to be discussed under the direction of 20 skilled group leaders chosen from outstanding Youth leaders in Ohio and other states.

Among the subjects to be discussed are: What Conditions in Ohio Mine Areas Do to Men; What Economic Conditions Are Doing to Men; Is an Economic Situation Possible that Will provide Employment, Food, Clothing, Comfort and Happiness to All; and The Church's Contribution to the Solution of the Problem.

Among the speakers are Prof. Perry P. Denune, Executive Secretary of The Ohio Welfare Association and the Department of Sociology of Ohio State University, Rev. John Sharpe of Belmont-co who has spent years in the Mine and Pottery areas of Ohio, Dean Thomas W. Graham of Oberlin College and Dr. J. Harry Cotton, 1932 lecturer of the Joseph Cook Foundation, who has recently returned from an eight months tour of the Orient.

Arrangements have been made to transport the youth in chartered busses and by auto from the far corners of the State and the citizens of Springfield are to furnish lodging and breakfast to all free of charge.

In Tragedy of Eternal Triangle

Here are the husband and children of Mrs. Jean Phillips, of Woodmont, L. I., whose love for the man she married drove her to kill herself and her children so that her husband would be free to go to the woman she believed had won his affections. At left is Guy Phillips, the husband, an English actor and dramatic Eleanor Vandervort and Evelyn Pierce.

On behalf of the business and professional citizens of the city and a close neighbor, Judge E. A. Brown, was presented and in his gracious manner gave a pleasant welcome.

A ladies' quartet sang "Ivory Palaces." Included in this group were Mrs. Ellen Hegge, Mrs. A. H. Morris, Mrs. Fannie Greene and Mrs. Ralph Long.

From the Ministerial Association of the city, a most worthy representative, Rev. C. H. Eichinger, brought fraternal greetings. He drew a word picture of the lights and shadows of a minister's life and the opportunity and blessing of this new field of labor and assured the new minister the hearty cooperation of his fellow pastors.

Miss Lucile Kirkwood sang a solo followed by a selection by the Men's chorus. Mr. Neuding in a few well chosen words presented Rev. Harper, who responded in a most pleasing manner. He thanked all for their kind words of welcome, for their fellowship and good will and pledged the best of himself or as he expressed it his strength, his life, his service, for his work in this part of God's Vineyard.

Another selection by the Men's chorus was followed by the concluding number of the program, a solo by Mrs. Fannie Greene and benediction by Rev. Eichinger.

Mr. Neuding invited all to the Community House, where a delightful social hour was enjoyed. The dining room and parlors were a bower of beauty with trimmings of autumn leaves, flowers and trailing vines and shrubs from the woods.

The tables were daintily decorated with russet streamers and colorful autumn leaves. Refreshments were served by the young ladies of the church under the supervision of the president of the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Hegge, the superintendent of the Sunday school and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick; class leader, Harry Kraft; president of the Brotherhood James Trimmer; president of the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Will Hegge, and president of the Missionary Society, Mrs. Ralph Long. After all had been welcomed and the church well filled, Mr. Neuding, chairman for the evening, opened a program with group singing. The invocation was given by Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor of St. Philip's Episcopal church. This was followed by a duet by Misses married, Miss Grace Bower assembled a group of friends for a delightful party at her home on Pleasant-st. Wednesday evening.

Bridge, the planned diversion of the evening, was in progress at four tables, and the pleasant hours passed all too quickly for the congenial group. At the conclusion of the enjoyable game attractive trophies were awarded Miss Helen Crist, Mrs. Gilbert Edgington, Frank Marion and Nelson Sweyer. The honored guests were presented a lovely gift.

A delicious collation served at the small tables brought the pleasant party to a close. Guests enjoying the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Bower, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Edgington, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sweyer, Lester Reid, Robert Bower, Edward Cahner, Charles Walters, Frank Marion, Misses Frances Jones, Katherine Reid, and Mary and Helen Crist.

William Downs of Cincinnati visited Tuesday and Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. George Pickard of E. Main-st.

Mrs. Earl Lutz and Mrs. C. H. Doan visited in Columbus, Thursday.

Mrs. E. B. Gilliland of Van Wert is visiting this week with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Gilliland of Pinckney.

received with wild acclaim, and he predicted that if such legislation were enacted it would not be necessary to increase present taxes. He said such a tax would net the government several hundred millions annually.

In suggesting the beer tax, Roosevelt said:

"Just as soon as the Democratic platform pledge is enacted into legislation, modifying the Volstead act, a source of new revenue amounting to several hundred million dollars a year will be made available toward the 'balancing' of the budget. I refer specifically to a federal tax on beer which would be raised through the sale of beer in those states, and those states only, which by state law allow the sale of beer.

He proposed re-organization of federal departments and the elimination of many boards and commissions as another means of raising several hundred millions annually to aid in balancing the budget.

The crowd boomed lustily when the Governor denounced Henry Ford and Gen. W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad as "adjudged" of the Republicans in "spreading the gospel of fear" in a desperate effort to prevent the election of the Democratic national ticket. Mention of the name of Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon also brought a storm of boos.

"This policy of seeking to win by fear and ruin is selfish in its motive. Brutal in its method and false in its premise," Roosevelt declared. "It is an insult to the intelligence of the voter to think that he or she can be fooled by shifting the blame of the full dinner pail made in 1928 to the threat of the continued empty dinner pail in 1929."

After asserting that the expenditures for the business of government jumped a billion dollars from 1927 to 1932, the Governor added:

"That is the most reckless and extravagant pace I have been able to discover in the record of any

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

by Edson R. Waite

That it takes better business to build better cities.

It is a well known fact that better business, prosperity and development go hand in hand. No city will grow faster than its business concerns grow.

Cities are known in their trade territory by the reputation of their business concerns. One live concern will bring some business to a city. Many live ones will bring much business.

The stronger the appeal they make through the printed page, the better the results will be. Today is the day of keen competition; the time when the automobile has cut down distance and time to such an extent that people can be attracted to a live city in ever increasing numbers.

Cities that are wide-awake are reaching out into new fields and securing business that they have never had before.

peace-time government, anywhere, anytime."

He declared the Hoover administration should be voted out of office because it had not dealt frankly with the people, had concealed the nation's real financial condition and had abused confidence.

IRIDICULES ALIBI
He ridiculed the Republican "alibi" that the depression was due to a "foreign cause."

"We do not need to look abroad for scapegoats because we have plenty of them in this country," Roosevelt said.

"We had ventured into the economic stratosphere 'on the wings of President Hoover's novel, radical and unorthodox economic theories of 1923—the complete collapse of which brought the real crash in 1929."

He said the record of the Republican administration "reveals it has been afraid to trust the American people." He said the budget had not been balanced "and the whole job must be done over again," and he asserted that if

"Just as soon as the Democratic platform pledge is enacted into legislation modifying the Volstead act, a source of new revenue amounting to several hundred million dollars a year will be made available toward the balancing of the budget. I refer specifically to a federal tax on beer which would be raised through the sale of beer in those states, and those states only, which by state law allow the sale of beer.

He proposed re-organization of federal departments and the elimination of many boards and commissions as another means of raising several hundred millions annually to aid in balancing the budget.

The crowd boomed lustily when the Governor denounced Henry Ford and Gen. W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad as "adjuncts" of the Republicans in "spreading the gospel of fear" in a desperate effort to prevent the election of the Democratic national ticket. Mention of the name of Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon also brought a storm of boos.

"This policy of seeking to win by fear and ruin is selfish in its motive. Brutal in its method and false in its premise," Roosevelt declared. "It is an insult to the intelligence of the voter to think that he or she can be fooled by shifting the blame of the full dinner pail made in 1928 to the threat of the continued empty dinner pail in 1932."

After asserting that the expenditures for the business of government jumped a billion dollars from 1927 to 1932, the Governor added:

peace-time government, anywhere, anytime."

He declared the Hoover administration should be voted out of office because it had not dealt frankly with the people, had concealed the nation's real financial condition and had abused confidence.

RIDICULES ALIBI

He ridiculed the Republican "alibi" that the depression was due to a "foreign cause."

"We do not need to look abroad for scapegoats because we have plenty of them in this country," Roosevelt said.

"We had ventured into the economic stratosphere on the wings of President Hoover's novel, radical and unorthodox economic theories of 1928—the complete collapse of which brought the real crash in 1929."

He said the record of the Republican administration "reveals it has been afraid to trust the American people." He said the budget had not been balanced "and the whole job must be done over again," and he asserted that if the present rate of expenditures over receipts continues "the true deficit next year will be over $1,600,000,000." He said he regarded a reduction of federal expenditures as one of the most important issues of the campaign.

If the Fates have decided to destroy this civilization, they've probably been reading the new popular songs.

A role of power, brilliancy and passion that will stand in timeless memory as a record of his genius.

It will stir the deepest emotions—the story of the husband who returned from living death to find everything changed—and of the wife whose heart was torn between the husband she pitied and the man she loved.
